THE 1950 TIGERS

As the Tigers of 1950 report at Lakeland, they appear to be a more formidable aggregation than their predecessors of recent seasons. With at least five capable starting pitchers, a strengthened infield and a young outfield that seems likely to be one of the circuit's best, the club should prove troublesome as a contender for the championship, in 1950.

Twelve pitchers, five catchers, thirteen infielders and seven outfielders make up the squad in training. Of these, only seven, including Gerry Priddy, Dick Kryhoski and Charlie Keller are newcomers. The club has a new coach in Rick Ferrell, veteran major league catcher.

After months of negotiation, General Manager Evans succeeded in improving the weak spot at second base, with the acquisition of Gerry Priddy, from the St. Louis Browns, in return for a sizable amount of cash and Pitcher Lou Kretlow. Dick Kryhoski, first baseman, was obtained from the Yankees, in a trade for Dick Wakefield, in whom the Detroit club had an investment of major proportions. Don Kolloway, Paul Campbell and George Vico, who alternated at first base, in '49, are still on the roster.

Charlie Keller, veteran Yankee outfielder, was signed by Detroit (after receiving his release as a ten-year player) in the hope that a revival of his long-ball hitting will improve the club's chances. In addition to Keller, the Tigers have four regular outfielders from last year's outfit. Two of them, Vic Wertz and Johnny Groth together accounted for 206 RBI's, although Groth participated in only 103 games, as the result of a broken wrist. Hoot Evers and Pat Mullin are the others who helped in giving the club a strong defensive outfield. Hoot with a mark of .303, was the club's second best hitter in 1949.

At third, the Tigers will have the doughty George Kell, who nosed out Ted Williams for the American League batting championship last year, with Johnny Lipon the leading contender for short.

In all likelihood, the veterans, Swift and Robinson will carry the major portion of the catching assignment, although the roster contains the names of Joe Ginsberg, who had a good season with the Toledo farm club in '49; Frank House, up from Flint, for whom the Detroit organization paid a record-breaking bonus and Harvey Riebe. House has had but one year of pro experience and in the opinion of club officials needs additional seasoning. As a bonus player, however, he must be kept on the squad unless the rule governing bonus players is amended.

BRIEF REVIEW OF 1949 SEASON

Detroit improved its position by one rung in the American League standings over its 1948 performance, finishing fourth (a game behind the Cleveland Indians) with a record of 87 victories and 67 losses.

Under the intelligent, aggressive leadership of its new manager, Robert "Red" Rolfe, the 1949 club provided its followers with a most interesting season with more frequent use of the hit and run, better base running and an ability to come from behind in the late innings.

Evidence of the fans' approval of Tiger performance was manifested in the home attendance which reached a new high of 1,821,204.

Improvement in the club was evident in the outfield, sparked in the early weeks of the season by Johnny Groth's sensational hitting and by the performance of Outfielder Vic Wertz whose .304 batting average, in 149 games, was responsible for 134 RBI's, third highest in the American League. The play of George Kell at third base was of an even higher quality than that of previous seasons and his batting mark of .3429 won him the league championship.

Ted Lyons and Dick Bartell, the coaches, are given credit by Manager Rolfe for the club's better showing. Art Houtteman, as an example, under Lyon's tutelage, improved his record from 2 wins and 16 losses in 1948, to 15 and 10 last season and this following a serious automobile accident which occurred during the training period at Lakeland.

Hal Newhouser's performance of 18 and 11 was not up to that of the previous season but Virgil Trucks with 19 and 11, and Fred Hutchinson with 15 and 7, showed marked improvement.

During the late weeks of the campaign, the Tigers made a bid for top honors when improved pitching permitted them to win 18 out of 20 games.

The loss of Johnny Groth in mid-August, due to a fractured wrist, was felt severely by the club as was the absence of a capable relief pitcher throughout the entire season. Perhaps the latter weakness, along with a lack of infield strength, was the most serious handicap to the ambitions of Tiger fans. Groth, at the time of his departure from the lineup, was responsible for 73 RBI's in 103 games. As a ground coverer, he won acclaim from the opening day of the season.

RADIO AND TELEVISION PROGRAMS

Harry Heilmann will again be the announcer on both AM and Television broadcasts from Briggs Stadium, during the 1950 season, with the Goebel Brewing Company, of Detroit, sponsoring the programs.

Station WJBK will be the Detroit outlet for the AM description over a state-wide hook-up of approximately 35 stations.

As in 1949, thirty-five of the home games will be televised, over WWJ-TV.
